USPA NEWS - The «Via delle Pietre» by the sculptor Remo Ponti

Remo Ponti is the man who sculpts stone with simple self-produced tools and brings out the soul from the stones.

For centuries, stone has been both a building material as well as an artistic canvas that can be used to convey emotions, stories and even mystery.

A small village in the province of Bergamo, Italy, is now home to a sculptor whose skill in turning stone into art is truly remarkable. Remo Ponti, the man from Albino in the province of Bergamo, is renowned for his ability to carve the very soul into the stone.

Through his work, he furthers his passion for creating objects of beauty and elegance. From the seemingly ordinary to the extraordinary, Ponti is able to transform a simple piece of stone into an artwork that speaks to the heart showcasing the spirit of his homeland in every piece. Ponti's sculptures, be it a portrait or a figure of animals, demonstrate his remarkable ability to capture the essence of his subject and bring it to life.

His work is renowned for its realistic detailing, as he takes inspiration from his environment and the animals that inhabit it. Ponti's drive and passion to create sculptures in stone has earned him worldwide recognition and admiration.

Through the vivid beauty of his sculptures, the people of his small village of Albino have become known throughout the world.
